

The Lyttleton Room

Lined with books and with a balcony which opens to the fresh air and a view of the gardens, the Lyttelton Room makes an ideal thinking space, perfect for working meetings. Generations of students have been taught here, and it is still regularly used for tutorials during the University term time. It is situated next to Talbot Hall, and works well as a breakout space. With plenty of natural light, the Lyttleton Room provides exactly the right atmosphere for workshops and seminars. It is accessed via steps from Wolfson Quad.
